John Meyers Joins TechSource

as Vice President, Federal Nuclear Programs

Los Alamos, NM. TechSource, Inc., a leading high-technology science and engineering consultancy offering recognized expertise in accelerator physics, nuclear sciences, engineering, systems engineering integration, and program and project management, is pleased to announce that John Meyers has joined its Executive Management Team as Vice President, Federal Nuclear Programs (VPFNP).

As VPFNP, John will operate as principal officer for all National Nuclear Security Administration and Department of Energy (DOE) field business development activities. John will leverage 30-plus years of experience to facilitate, execute, and formalize business development processes; enhance TechSource's value proposition, operational controls, and administrative procedures; and drive client-centric sustainable growth.

John is an accomplished, intuitive executive with comprehensive leadership and management experience gained from hands-on service within the DOE, its Defense Nuclear Facilities, and the Nuclear Security Enterprise. John also possesses significant proficiency in Start-up, Transition, and Early Stage Intervention activities associated with several key DOE Management & Operations and Tier-I contracts.

"John joins TechSource at an important time in the company's evolution," said Jeffrey Giangliuli, TechSource's Chief Operations Officer. "As our company continues to expand, business development operations are at the core of our growth strategy. I am excited to add John's business building skillset to the TechSource team. With his help, I am confident TechSource will achieve real results as we continue to deliver on our core mission of being the partner our clients need to realize mission fulfillment."

Prior to joining TechSource, John was the Executive Officer, Weapons Production for Triad NS, LLC's Strategic Subcontractor, HII.
