TechSource Announces New Joint Venture with Sierra Peaks: TSP Solutions

TechSource, Inc. and Sierra Peaks Corporation have proudly launched a joint venture, TSP Solutions. TSP Solutions is committed to delivering outstanding science, engineering, and manufacturing services for mission-critical and national security programs. With locations in eight U.S. states and an extensive client network—including DOE, AccSys Technology, DOD, and NNSA—TSP Solutions leverages the combined strengths of both companies to provide top-tier services and solutions.

“This collaboration represents a significant step in our commitment to enhancing national security and advancing technology. By merging the strengths of both companies, we can provide unparalleled science, engineering, and manufacturing services for programs essential to our nation's security. TechSource and Sierra Peaks are perfectly positioned to offer innovative thinking, strategic planning, and manufacturing services and solutions that elevate mission delivery,” said Tim Brooks, Director of Strategic Accounts at Sierra Peaks.

J. Quinn Wingerd, Vice President & Managing Director of the Albuquerque Program Management Office added, “The joint venture brings together two top-tier providers, each celebrated for its expertise. TechSource is known for its longstanding reputation in delivering advanced scientific, engineering, and technical solutions that enhance client mission outcomes. Meanwhile, Sierra Peaks is distinguished for its cutting-edge design and manufacturing capabilities. By uniting as TSP Solutions, we offer an unparalleled comprehensive suite of next gen solutions and services.”

In addition to celebrating this joint venture both companies are proud of recent, important recognitions they have each received. TechSource was recently awarded the Inc. 5000 Fastest-Growing Companies in the U.S. (10-time award winner), the 2024 New Mexico Flying 40 Award, as well as being named the Department of Energy's Small Business of the Year.
