Lindahl Reed, Inc. and TechSource, Inc. Launch LRTS Solutions Joint Venture to Support High-Consequence Federal Missions

Washington, DC. Lindahl Reed, Inc. and TechSource, Inc. are proud to announce the launch of LRTS Solutions, LLC, a Small Business Administration (SBA)-approved mentor-protégé joint venture purpose-built to deliver scientific, engineering, and programmatic support across the Department of Energy (DOE), National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA), Department of Defense (DoD), and other critical national security and environmental programs.

The joint venture combines Lindahl Reed's expertise in energy innovation, infrastructure resilience, and environmental stewardship with TechSource's nationally recognized leadership in nuclear science, weapons systems support, and classified program execution. Together, the firms represent over 750 cleared and credentialed professionals with deep domain expertise, extensive federal past performance, and scalable delivery capabilities designed to support high-consequence government operations.

"LRTS Solutions reflects our shared mission to serve the federal government with integrity, performance, and technical rigor," said Shayne Naugle, Senior Vice President of Growth at Lindahl Reed. "The partnership gives agencies a high-performance, small business partner they can trust to meet complex mission needs with speed, technical excellence, and accountability."

LRTS Solutions is qualified by the SBA to receive awards designated for 8(a) Business Development Program participants, Small Disadvantaged Businesses (SDB), Woman-Owned Small Businesses (WOSB), and Economically Disadvantaged Woman-Owned Small Businesses (EDWOSB). The joint venture is also eligible for SBA direct award contracts. LRTS Solutions operates with full compliance infrastructure, including DCAA-approved accounting systems and ISO/CMMC/FCL-ready operations to support both classified and unclassified work.

"TechSource and Lindahl Reed share a deep-rooted culture of performance, integrity, and mission alignment," said Brent Clark, TechSource's Senior Vice President of Operations – East. "Through this joint venture, we extend our national reach, enhance our technical capacity, and offer federal customers a trusted, best-in-class joint venture built to execute on the full spectrum of contract requirements."
