FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

July 16, 2025

Adam Church Appointed Vice President, Managing Director of TechSource's Albuquerque PMO

Albuquerque, NM. TechSource, a 100% employee-owned company and a premier provider of technical solutions, proudly announces the promotion of Adam Church to Vice President, Managing Director of the Albuquerque Program Management Office (ABQ PMO).

Adam's promotion follows an extensive selection process and reflects his outstanding achievements, strategic acumen, and unwavering commitment to TechSource's mission. Since joining the company in 2023, Adam has driven successful outcomes across high-profile Department of Energy (DOE) and Department of Defense (DoD) initiatives. His contributions have included leadership in key programs such as the National Nuclear Security Administration (NNSA) and Sandia National Laboratories (Sandia) support, hypersonics contract capture, and the Accelerator and Pulsed Power growth initiatives.

With more than 16 years of experience within the Nuclear Security Enterprise, Adam brings exceptional leadership and technical expertise to his new role. Before joining TechSource, he held multiple management positions at Sandia, where he led initiatives across thermal battery design, advanced fuzing technologies, and national security hardware development.

"TechSource has been an incredible place to grow as a leader and technical professional. I'm honored to lead the Albuquerque PMO and look forward to continuing our momentum as we expand our mission-driven work and partnerships across DOE and DoD," stated Church. "It's deeply meaningful to contribute to an employee-owned company that empowers its people and plays a vital role in advancing national security from right here in Albuquerque." In his new role, Adam will set the strategic direction for expanding TechSource's capabilities in nuclear weapons lifecycle support, hypersonic systems, threat and vulnerability analysis, and weapons knowledge transfer.

"As we look to the future of the ABQ PMO, I have every confidence in Adam's exceptional track record and visionary leadership," said Curtis Christensen, Senior Vice President Operations-West. "Adam is uniquely qualified to lead us into the next phase of growth and innovation. His expertise will propel our organization to new heights and ensure we continue to deliver unmatched value to our clients." TechSource congratulates Adam on this well-earned promotion and looks forward to the impact of his leadership in advancing the company's mission as a trusted partner in national security.
